

Individual Game Tournaments

Several individual game tournaments have been scheduled during the weekend. Individual game tournaments will consist of either two or three rounds. All winners of the game during an official qualifying round will make the semi-final or final round, and some second place finishers may be accepted as well. It is necessary to check in for the semi finals or finals at least 15 minutes in advance. Please let us know as soon as possible if you qualify but do not intend to play. Second place players who would be interested in participating if space becomes available should also check in 15 minutes prior to scheduled start of the final.

T2R Original Version	Three round single elimination tournament	Friday noon

If possible, at least four people will play at each semi-finals or finals board. If there are four or fewer games played in the qualifying rounds, then all winners and sufficient second place finishers (chosen at random or taken in order of PBT score in the qualifier, as announced) to make a table of four will advance. If it is not possible to have all of the winners play at a single board (e.g. there are more than 6 people for a Silverton Final), there may be multiple final rounds or multiple finals boards played simultaneously, depending on the convention and schedule. In either case, enough second place winners will advance to fill the tables to have at least four players at each table if possible.

A final game is always played to its full conclusion, even if the game exceeds the scheduled time allowed. Shortened game rules designed to fit into a time slot are not used in a final (e.g. the Silverton final is played out to its full 24 turns, and the Rail Baron final continues until a player achieves victory conditions).

If there are multiple final boards being played simultaneously, the winner of the game tournament will be the player who wins his or her final by the largest percentage margin (i.e. you want to blow out your competition in the final game).
